Reduce the cost of college

De Anza is expanding the use of Open Educational Resources (OER) - FREE and low-cost materials - and making textbooks and other required course content more affordable for students.

Below is information and resources that faculty members can use to join this effort, in collaboration with the Academic Senate, Bookstore, Library Services, Office of Communications and Office of Instruction.

How can students learn if they are hungry and/or homeless?

What our students said

I used to qualify for free lunch and breakfast at school. This comprised most of my calories for those years... Access to healthy food is a big deal to poor students. -FH

I have been homeless some months, living out of my car or couch surfing. -FH

I'm transgender. LGBT people like me can have unsupportive families. The three things that kept me going were the Clipper card VTA eco pass, cafeteria food, and a friendly community. -DA

As students, it's hard for us to survive on what little we make from our minimum wage jobs and often it's discouraging. -DA

I make too much to qualify for resources, yet I don't make enough at the same time to survive. I live from check to check and it's very stressful, especially as a single mother. -DA

I cannot afford a car so I take public transport daily. Currently...sharing an apartment with 4 others. I survive almost entirely on cup noodles as it is cheap. -DA

Rent, utilities, bills, food, it adds up and costs a fortune and by the end of it all you realize you have nothing left and you learn how to stretch a dollar. -FH
