

Jurisdiction	Noticing Beyond 300' State Requirement	Posting Notice on Project Site	Story Poles/Rendering Required	Project Information Posted Online	Noticing Beyond Property Owners (State Minimum)	Public Forum Online	Newspaper Ads are Posted In
Sunnyvale (current)	On certain projects within the Peery Park District (based on stories) and in some instances on larger projects (policy)	Yes	No	Development Update spreadsheet posted monthly and some projects have webpages	Yes, residential and non-residential tenants noticed also	No	Sunnyvale Sun
Sunnyavle (proposed)	On taller projects (expanded noticing is based on proposed height) and in some instances at the discretion fo the Community Development Director	Yes	Rendering will be required for all site-specific projects that will go to a Planning Commission and/or City Council hearing	Yes, public notices and pending project information for major development projects will be posted online, the development update will continue to be updated and some projects will continue to have their own web page	Yes, residential and non-residential tenants noticed also	Possibly upon further direction	Sunnyvale Sun
Campbell	Not usually, on some occasions up to 500 feet	Yes	No	Notices posted online, starting to include plans	No	No	Campbell Express
Cupertino	Only when project will be controversial (Apple) and high profile, discretion of Director	Yes	No, used to require story poles on residential projects but felt they didn't really portray design or a real story and discontinued the practice	They create websites for large projects and link plans online	No	No	Cupertino Currier
Gilroy	500' radius for projects that require a public hearing	Project Notification Sign On-Site 10 days prior to hearing (4'x8' large projects, 2'x3' minor projects)	No	Yes, descriptions updated monthly online, some plans available online but not a current requirement	Only in one specific Combining District is this required, not for the majority of projects	Only for their General Plan Updates (hosted by MindMixer)	Gilroy Dispatch
Los Gatos	At least 30 properties must be noticed, 300' standard	Yes	Story Poles required	Working to develop an activity report but not yet, larger project information usually posted online.	No	No	Los Gatos Weekly Times
Milpitas	Yes, ranges from 300-1,000 feet depending on permit type	In some cases, not always	No	Via staff reports and agendas, not specifically	Yes, in limited cases (ie mobile home conversions)	No	Local Newspaper
Morgan Hill	No	Yes, project sign posted 10 days prior to the hearing.	No	Via staff reports, agendas, and status updates, not specifically	Only if the applicant submits envelopes addressed to tenants also, not required	Only Facebook and not used for public meetings	Morgan Hill Times
Mountain View	On occasion, case by case basis	Also case by case but sign is posted for all major projects and some include renderings	In some cases renderings are posted (no story poles)	Yes, list of projects online, updated quarterly. Reports, Plans, etc for all public hearing items are also posted online	On occasion noticing is done beyond property owners	No	Daily Journal and Mountain View Voice
Palo Alto	Case by Case, certain large projects noticed at 600-1200 ft.	Residential projects, some large projects	Not usually	Yes, website	On occasion	No	Palo Alto Weekly
County of Santa Clara	300 feet, at least 24 recipients	Yes	No	Yes, websites for larger projects	No	No	Local newspaper
City of Santa Clara	On occasion, staff discretion, 1,000 ft. maximum (49rs stadium noticed 1,000 feet)	In some occasions	Not usually	Only major approved or pending projects, no plans posted online	No	Not for planning, City Council uses Open Town Hall by Peak Democracy for general comments	Santa Clara Weekly

Saratoga	500' if the project requires a public hearing	Notice Poster on site, story poles, neighbor sign off form for residential projects that meet a certain threshold	Story Poles required for residential projects	Only with the agenda, plans are attached to the agenda also	Not usually	No	Local Newspaper
Los Altos	Yes, 500' notice if the project requires a public hearing	Information Sign posted on site	No	At least 72 hours in advance (with agenda), no plans	Yes, include tenants in notice	Yes via a Web Comment section on their website	Los Altos Town Crier
San Jose	Policy 6-30	Information posted on site for larger projects and some residential design reviews	Not usually	Policy 6-30	Policy 6-30	No	Policy 6-30
Concord	Yes, ranges from 100 to 500 feet dependent on type of project	Yes	No	Yes, development updates online, no plans	No	No	Contra Costa Times
Fremont	On occasion, larger more controversial projects	On larger projects	No	Yes, development update map (hard to read though) and major project websites	Not usually	No	Local Newspaper
Walnut Creek	On occasion, larger more controversial projects	On some Design Reviews	Not required, rendering encouraged on some projects	Yes, major projects online	Not usually	No, planner contact information is posted online with major projects	Local Newspaper
San Leandro	On occasion, larger more controversial projects	On larger projects this may be required by the Director	No	Yes, major projects	On occasion (large projects)	For major projects comments can be submitted online	Yes, local newspaper
Redwood City	Very rarely, only on major projects and on a case by case basis	Yes	No	No	Not usually	No	local newspaper