COMMUNITY MEETING #2

Plaza del Sol - Phase II Master Plan

1. Is there a concept you like the most? Why?

Plaza Green

The plaza needs more shade and enclosed spaces to feel comfortable during hot days. This scheme addresses the garage ramp in way that creates more usable green space, as well as incorporates tree planters in unutilized spaces/alcoves.

2. Is there a concept you like the least? Why?

Contemporary

It seems to be adding structures and fixed elements that may not provide too much value to a user, beyond aesthetic. The current public art at the plaza doesn't seem too successful, so ~~the~~ whatever public art that is proposed should be more interactive. I do like the lighting within this scheme.

COMMUNITY MEETING #2

Plaza del Sol - Phase II Master Plan

3. Are there elements you'd like to add or subtract from the 3 concepts?

The existing trellis ^{and space} at plaza corner seems very heavy and not welcoming. Perhaps adding planting areas or explicit seating areas on the stairs would create more of a "place." Even if the trellis is painted white, it would seem lighter and brighter.

4. Any other comments or concerns?

looks great. Thank you!

Please fill out and return the comment card to the sign-in table by the end of the meeting.

COMMUNITY MEETING #2

Plaza del Sol - Phase II Master Plan

Wood-Cladder Seawall planter
This would permanently stop people from being able to use this for any this prevent it for future use

COMMUNITY MEETING #2

Plaza del Sol - Phase II Master Plan

1. Is there a concept you like the most? Why?

I like combining elements. The garage ramp roof turf mound is a great way to add more green open space. Combine that with play equipment and you have a winner!

2. Is there a concept you like the least? Why?

The large structural garage ramp roofs seem mostly useless, since all they would do is keep cars dry on rainy days. The green turf mound roof is MUCH more useful!

COMMUNITY MEETING #2

Plaza del Sol - Phase II Master Plan

3. Are there elements you'd like to add or subtract from the 3 concepts?

Just mix the turf mound roof ramp with play equipment. ☺

4. Any other comments or concerns?

Thank you for soliciting community feedback!

COMMUNITY MEETING #2

Plaza del Sol - Phase II Master Plan

1. Is there a concept you like the most? Why?

No - not really - like ^{some} elements in each

Like the fountain - but not in the classic style.
Develop a more contemporary water feature maybe in junction w/ mister's structure.

2. Is there a concept you like the least? Why?

— whichever has the most concrete,
need permeable materials at
the least,

COMMUNITY MEETING #2

Plaza del Sol - Phase II Master Plan

3. Are there elements you'd like to add or subtract from the 3 concepts?

Like to subtract lighting around garage/retail and have lights around enhanced trellis (big circle) and form a pathway through the park.

4. Any other comments or concerns?

Am concerned about signage - some practical but lighted a few wayfinding signs at entrances/exits.

I think the light column is awesome and can serve as a marker - a placemaker for the park. Can see from a distance but not obnoxious as planned. Great idea - could make interactive.

Please fill out and return the comment card to the sign-in table by the end of the meeting.

COMMUNITY MEETING #2

Plaza del Sol - Phase II Master Plan

1. Is there a concept you like the most? Why?

I like plaza green the most because it softens the concrete with plants & natural materials like wood.

I really like making a sense of place by the retail stores like on concept classic.

2. Is there a concept you like the least? Why?

I fear the concept contemporary may not use well, but I like the use of more interesting shapes for water features, shade/stage structure.

COMMUNITY MEETING #2

Plaza del Sol - Phase II Master Plan

3. Are there elements you'd like to add or subtract from the 3 concepts?

Add something to make semi circle raised areas more inviting

4. Any other comments or concerns?

make sure design considers bird deterrent design as droppings really discourage use.

Consider path to connect to W Evelyn.

Subject: Special Meeting: Community Outreach Meeting Regarding Plaza Del Sol, Phase II

ATTN: Email is from an external source; Stop, Look, and Think before opening attachments or links.

Mayor Klein, Vice-Mayor Smith and Council Members, Parks and Recreation Commissioners,

I will be unable to attend this outreach meeting on February 12th, so I am submitting comments by email.

For eight years, I worked in the Mozart buildings. As a result I was on Plaza Del Sol multiple times a day, so I am very familiar with this space. My employer, Broadcom, frequently held company events on the Plaza.

As a starting point, I suggest looking at European piazzas. Many of these have enriched their communities for centuries. We do not need to reinvent the wheel. There is an interesting article, "Here's How American Cities Can Learn From Italian Piazzas", which compares (unfavorably) the square around San Jose City Hall and Piazza Maggiore in Bologna, Italy.

Good piazzas are centrally located, like Plaza Del Sol, and have pedestrian paths that easily connect to nearby urban destinations -also true for Plaza Del Sol.

What is missing is an active, pedestrian scale ground floor at the edges of the Plaza. From the article mentioned above:

You would think this would be clear to everyone by now: Active and permeable ground floors are a sine qua non for the functioning of an urban plaza. This is what really provides Piazza Maggiore and most Italian Piazzas in general with the fuel and spark of their vibrancy. The monumental scale of the churches and palazzi is broken down to the human scale with the insertion of fine-grained bustling commercial activities. [in contrast] Look at San Jose City Hall Plaza and you will find a trade show of ground floor life-suckers: a vacant lot, a multilevel parking garage, a gas station and the parking lot for a big box retail complex wrap around the space, rendering any intent of the design of the plaza irrelevant.

With this in mind, here are some suggestions to "activate the edges" of the plaza.

1. Philz Coffee and The Don's Deli. As a frequent customer to these establishments, they are both often too crowded to sit down. They are losing business. An easy change would be to add outside seating with quality tables and chairs, a canopy for shade and possibly a low barrier for visual appeal. This could extend to Vitality Bowls as well. In contrast to the current handful of cheap tables, the view from the plaza would be people relaxing and having coffee or food in the open air.

2. 100 Mathilda Place. The bottom floor, facing the Plaza would be an excellent location for a restaurant, with outdoor seating. This part of the first floor is isolated from the rest of the office building by the lobby and there is parking directly below the building.
3. The new building replacing the post office and apartments. Similarly, the ground floor of this building should include pedestrian scale locations such as restaurants or shops. The developer may not like this idea, and you will be informed that retail is dead. But somehow, it is almost impossible to get into Santana Row and it is actually impossible to park at Valley Fair most of the time.

The Evelyn Avenue side is a little more problematic. More retail locations would be nice, but this is on top of the parking garage, so I am not sure how much weight it will bear. Possibly, a row of booths, similar to what we see at the Farmers Market would work, selling jewelry or clothing. Maybe Silicon Valley souvenirs.

In the center of the square, how about some seating around a fountain or planted area. The open space should still be able to accommodate a public gathering with a raised area for a stage.

When all of these elements are added, we need to open up one side of the Plaza so that residents can view this attractive public space. This would be along Frances. Currently, the view of the Plaza is blocked from this street. This should be opened up.

I hope there will be more outreach meetings about this important space in Downtown.

Respectfully,
Mike Serrone
